BOY SCOUTS' FUND DRIVE IS BEING DELAYED

Highway conditions have caused a week's postponement of the annual drive for funds for the Black Walnut Boy Scout District.

Jack Orner, Arendtsville, campaign chairman, said start of the district's annual campaign to raise $5,700 in the area outside Gettysburg has been postponed from February 2 to February 9 because of snow and resultant poor condition of the highways have slowed efforts of the community chairman to secure solicitors for the campaign.

The "kick-off" dinner provided for the chairman and solicitors, free of charge, by the C. H. Musselman Company, Biglerville, originally scheduled for Thursday, February 2, has been postponed to February 9 when it will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the C. H. Musselman plant cafeteria at Biglerville.

SPECIAL GIFTS SLOWED

At the same time the district finance chairman, Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, said he had been informed by Dr. W. E. Tilberg, chairman of the special gifts committee, that the efforts of that committee are "running behind schedule" because of the snow covered highways. While the special gifts committee has been operative, it has been delayed in its efforts by inability of the committee to make as many visits as it wished because of the snow.

The campaign to raise $5,700 is conducted throughout the county, with the exception of Gettysburg, during the period around Boy Scout Week. Gettysburg is not included in the canvass because it raises its funds for Boy Scouting through Community Chest.

Money raised in the campaign provides professional services, maintenance of an office to handle the paper work and supplies for the Scouts, helps maintain Camp Tuckahoe and provides instruction and materials for Scouting.

6 AMERICANS WILL RECEIVE FATE IN CUBA

HAVANA (AP) — Six Americans accused of conspiring against Fidel Castro may learn their fate today from a military tribunal that could deport them, keep them in prison or send them to their deaths.

There was speculation the court might emulate Soviet Premier Khrushchev's freeing of two American fliers last week as a gesture toward the new Kennedy administration.

In a 2½-hour trial Saturday the Americans claimed they had come to Havana in a stolen boat early in January, after the United States broke diplomatic relations with Cuba, to help defend Castro's revolution.

The prosecutor scoffed at the Americans' explanation and charged they were bringing arms to rebel guerrillas fighting Castro. He asked for death by firing squad.

Although Castro has repeatedly called for the sternest treatment of those trying to overthrow him, defense attorney Luis Raul Fleitas cited the prime minister's less angry attitude toward the new U.S. administration and Premier Khrushchev's release of the two American reconnaissance fliers. Fleitas said these were samples of "good faith" the court should follow.

The six Americans are George R. Beck, 24, of Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, of Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, of Gastonia, N.C.; James E. Bean, 34, of Cedar Falls, N.C.; Alfred Eugene Gibson, 32, of Mount Gilead, N.C.; and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, of Chicago.

POSTPONE DINNER

The ham and oyster dinner scheduled for Saturday at the Grace Lutheran Church, Two Taverns, has been postponed until sometime after Easter, due to inclement weather, it was announced today by the Men's Bible Class.

A three-acre tract of land owned by the late Lucinda A. Hanes, Butler Twp., was sold at public sale Saturday to Cyrus Bucher, Biglerville, for $3,000. The land is improved with a four-room frame dwelling. Clair Slaybaugh was the auctioneer.

Firemen Called To Blaze Sunday

Gettysburg firemen were called Sunday morning to a fire at the home of George Wagaman, near Seven Stars, but found on their arrival that Mr. Wagaman had done a good job of putting out the blaze.

Fire Chief Francis I. Linn said the fire was confined to an area around a pipe entering the second floor of the home from a space heater on the first floor.

Upon their arrival at the scene firemen found Wagaman had ripped away plaster from the ceiling and used a bucket and basin to throw water into the opening and extinguish the fire.

Damage was estimated at about $50.

One hundred fifty-nine students from five Adams County high schools have been entered in the 1961 annual high school mathematics contest sponsored jointly by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries, it was announced today by Dr. M. Scott Moorhead, area chairman for the contest.

Sixty-five students have been entered from Bermudian Springs High School at York Springs, 35 from Fairfield High School, 35 from Gettysburg High School, three from Littlestown and 21 from Delone Catholic High School, whose entries last year carried off team and individual honors in the Adams-Cumberland area.

There are also 106 pupils in three Cumberland County high schools that have entered the competition. Thirty-three are from Carlisle Area Joint High School, 40 from Cumberland Valley Joint High School, and 35 from Cedar Cliff Joint High School, Dr. Moorhead said.

A bronze cup will be awarded to the school in each contest region with the highest team score and a demonstration slide rule will go to the school in each region with the second highest score. There will be a certificate of merit to all schools in each region in the upper 10 per cent of team scores.

There will be a mathematics pin to the student in each school with the highest score. A perfect score will net a gold medal and there will be a silver medal to the contestant who is a three-time winner. Two wins will earn a bronze medal. There will be an individual side rule to each of the five highest ranking contestants in each region.

A book of mathematical tables will be awarded to each of the next 10 highest ranking contestants in each region.

GIVE EXAM MARCH 9

The contest examination in secondary school mathematics is limited to material from elementary algebra, plane and coordinate geometry and intermediate algebra will be given in each participating school in an 80-minute period on Thursday, March 9. It will be a multiple choice type of examination with penalties for wrong guesses.

January 15 was the deadline for registrations.

Top honors in the two-county area in the 1960 contest went to Delone Catholic High School's entries. The school received a certificate of merit for ranking among the top 10 per cent of the competing schools. The two students with the top individual scores, Charles Leroy Hemler and Robert Lawrence Long, received copies of the book, The World of Mathematics, and Hemler got a bronze medal for being top student in the contest area for two years.

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — An Air Force officer on the Pentagon staff disclosed Sunday night that Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman B. Olmstead don't know what happened to three members of their RB47 crew still listed only as missing.

McKone and Olmstead, at home after seven months in a Soviet prison camp, were relaxing today with their wives and children. They are under orders not to grant any interviews.

They were among six airmen in the plane shot down in the Barents Sea near the Soviet Union last July. The body of one crewman, Capt. Willard G. Palm of Topeka, was recovered and returned to this country.

Lt. Col. Robert Eby, who accompanied the two fliers to Topeka's Forbes AFB, Saturday, said he had talked to them and "they just don't know; the three men are still missing as far as we are concerned."

FARM POND FISH MAY BE SUFFOCATING

Birds and four-footed wild animals may be finding food short during the snowy weeks of icy weather, but fish in many farm ponds may be slowly suffocating, in the opinion of Richard Long, work unit supervisor for the Adams County Soil Conservation district.

Farm ponds that do not include springs or have streams flowing into or out of them may offer fish little food and oxygen during this weather when the ponds have been covered with heavy coatings of snow-laden ice, Long said.

There is no serious problem in ponds that are fed by springs or streams, he explained, for the streams carry food and air into the ponds and the springs with their above-freezing water temperatures often melt openings in the pond ice thus admitting both air and sunshine.

While the sunshine would be a help, the lack of oxygen supply is the more serious problem, Long said.

His suggestion for aiding the plight of fish, especially in heavily stocked ponds, is for the owner to chop away ice in shallow water near a bank at a point where the opening will be sheltered. A bright sun shining on the sheltered area will slow freezing or keep the ice from getting so thick that the opening cannot be readily renewed.

"Although fish are not very active in very cold weather and do not require very much food or very much oxygen, it has been found that fish appear to suffocate in some farm ponds where supplies of oxygen are not available for long periods of time," Long said.

In natural lakes there are usually springs that cause ice openings or streams flowing into and out of the lakes that solve the problem and the same situation exists in some farm ponds. In others, however, both the oxygen and food supplies grow short.

Most farm ponds in this area have been frozen over since early December and there is little doubt that fish life in some of them may be suffering from the long period in which the pond has been cut off from sunlight and air.

MARCH IN PARADE

Gary R. Maitland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Maitland, Gettysburg R. 3, and William J. Keefer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Keefer, McSherrystown, both midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy, were members of the 3,800-man brigade that marched in the inaugural parade for President John F. Kennedy January 20 in Washington.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, solemnly calling this a time of national emergency with the Communist tide running dangerously against America, today announced he has ordered swift bolstering of U.S. military defenses.

In his first State of the Union message, the President said the orders provide for an immediate speed-up in Polaris submarine construction and in development and production of missiles, and for prompt increase in air-lift capacity to deal with "any problem at any spot on the globe at any moment's notice."

PLEDGES COOPERATION

But in his address to Congress and the country, Kennedy also pledged his administration to exploration of "all possible areas of cooperation with the Soviet Union and other nations" to invoke the wonders of nuclear and space science instead of the terrors.

He specifically invited the Soviet Union to join with the United States now in a science space program "which some day may unlock the deepest secrets of the universe."

Kennedy, speaking before a joint session of the House and Senate and to a nationwide television and radio audience, said that despite the current urgent need for greater military might until tensions ease, arms control and disarmament will be "a central goal of our national policy." He called for new efforts to end the arms race.

FURTHER SET-BACKS

Meanwhile, he said: "The tide is unfavorable. Life in 1961 will not be easy. There will be further set-backs before the tide is turned. But turn it we must. The hopes of all mankind rest upon us."

The youthful President dealt mostly with the world situation, which he painted in somber tones. There also was a note of gravest in what he had to say about the home front.

"In short," he declared, "the American economy is in trouble." He said that for the last seven months business has been in the throes of recession. He said further that there have been "three and half years of slack, seven years of diminished economic growth, and nine years of falling farm income."

CAMPAIGN PROMISES

Kennedy sketched in general terms a program for dealing with this matter, saying his administration "does not intend to stand helplessly by." He promised to detail the program in special messages to Congress during the next two weeks. The remedies he outlined broadly are largely those he advocated during the presidential campaign.

The President said that barring development of urgent national defense needs or a worsening of the economy, proposals he advances in all fields "will not of and by themselves unbalance the budget" he inherited from the Eisenhower regime.

Free Commissioner Until February 8

HARRISBURG (AP)—James F. Torrance, 71-year-old former Pennsylvania Turnpike commissioner, is free from custody pending a court ruling whether he is physically able to continue his prison term.

Torrance was released from Dauphin County Prison Saturday under a federal court order obtained by his lawyers the day before. He was accompanied by his son, Milo, as he left the prison.
A special Feb. 6 hearing before the U. S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia will take up the question of whether Torrance is able to complete his jail sentence without seriously endangering his health.
The Export man's counsel contend that he suffers from a hypersensitive heart condition that would threaten his life in prison.
Torrance and three other men began serving terms last Tuesday on charges of defrauding the Turnpike Commission of $19.5 million in construction of the road's northeast extension to Scranton.

Prize Winner Now Dean At Point Park

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Fine, Pulitzer Prize winning reporter, has been named dean of the School of Journalism and Communications at Point Park Junior College in Pittsburgh.
Fine currently is education editor of the North American Newspaper Alliance. He will continue writing his weekly column while serving as dean.
Fine was education editor of the New York Times for 17 years until he left in 1958 to help set up the Ford Foundation's teacher training program at the Graduate School of Education in New York City.

In announcing the appointment Sunday, Dr. Dorothy C. Finkelhor, Point Park president, said the journalism school will open officially in September.

WILL NOT DELAY TRIAL OF FINE

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Further delays beyond March 20 in proceedings stemming from the federal grand jury indictment of John S. Fine, former governor Pennsylvania, and two other Luzerne County men for alleged income tax evasion is ruled out in an order signed by U. S. District Judge Frederick V. Follmer.

Today originally was set as the last day to file briefs. Three delays have already developed in proceedings following the indictment of Fine, his brother-in-law, Donald P. Morgan, both of Dallas R. D. 2; and Albert Biscontini, Kingston, a business associate, for the alleged evasion of about $65,000 in income taxes.

The order sets a March 6 deadline for filing of the briefs, a March 16 time limit for filing of reply briefs and March 20 for arguments.

KENNEDYS ARE HOST TO WHITE HOUSE FAMILY

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy shook hands with 300 members of their official family at a gay White House reception Sunday night, featuring champagne and mixed drinks.

The President said it was the first chance he had had to meet many of the new members of his team.

The 5 p.m. gathering—first major social event at the White House given by the Kennedys—started off with the swearing in of 15 of the latest appointees. Chief Justice Earl Warren, introduced by Kennedy as "the busiest man in Washington," officiated at the ceremony in the East Room.

Buffet table
Mrs. Kennedy, in a black velvet sleeveless sheath dress, stood with her husband, Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and the Warrens to receive the guests in the Blue Room, where a fire burned in the stately fireplace.

The guests mingled later in the state dining room, where a buffet table was laden with tiny sandwiches, cakes and goodies. Drinks, including California and New York champagne, were served at a nearby bar-table. The Marine Corps Band played in the north lobby.

Invited to the reception were 149 administration officials. All appointees to major posts in the administration were on the guest list.

Attended Mass
The Kennedys left for their private quarters after about an hour on the receiving line and did not join the guests in the dining room.

The party brought together some of the President's very newest appointees, such as Edward R. Murrow, director of the United States Information Agency, named only Saturday, and some holdovers from prior administrations, such as long-time FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

During the day, Kennedy also attended a solemn Red Mass, celebrated by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, invoking divine blessings on the administration of justice.

Send Furniture For Ike's Office

Workmen have begun moving furniture and office supplies into the new offices of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on the corner of Carlisle and Stevens Sts., according to Lt. Col. John D. Eisenhower, son of the ex-president, who is in charge of the transfer.

Col. Eisenhower said that not all of the equipment is available at the present time. The General Services Administration, the agency in charge of leasing office space for former presidents, has ordered some of the furniture from France and it has not arrived as yet.

Three desks, three tables, a typewriter and some filing cabinets had been moved into the newly renovated home, which formerly housed the presidents of Gettysburg College.
Col. Eisenhower said that the home is "very adequate for the purpose, it couldn't better."
The work is not expected to be completed until March when the lease will become effective.

Weather Will Moderate Tuesday And Wednesday, Then Turn Colder Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A light snow fell in western Pennsylvania today and snow flurries occurred in other parts of the state as the extremely cold weather continued to hang on for the 12th straight day.

But the Weather Bureau said there would be a slight relief Tuesday. Forecasters said high temperatures Tuesday would be about 5 degrees higher than those for today, which are expected to range from the high teens to the upper 20s.

Temperatures in Philadelphia Sunday remained below the freezing points for the 11th straight day, setting a new cold record. The high Sunday was 26. The longest previous spell of sub-freezing temperatures was 10 straight days in 1948.

BELOW NORMAL WEATHER

In a five-day extended forecast issued for today, the Weather Bureau said temperatures are expected to average 3-to-6 degrees below normal in Pennsylvania. Temperatures have gone as low as 20 degrees below normal. Normal highs are 33-to-38 while the

Governor Quiet On Reappointment

HARRISBURG (AP)—A spokesman for Democratic Gov. Lawrence says the administration will have no immediate comment on a published report that the governor has decided not to reappoint Republican Leon Schwartz to the Public Utility Commission.

Schwartz, whose term expires April 1, is chairman of the commission. Schwartz said from his Nanticoke home that he had no idea what the source for the story in the Philadelphia Inquirer might be. He declined further comment.

The spokesman for Lawrence issued this statement:

"Commissioner Schwartz's term does not expire until April 1. Our position is that we will have no comment until that time."

The Inquirer also said that Lawrence has not made up his mind on a successor but the newspaper mentioned Joseph I. Lewis of Pittsburgh as a possible choice.

In Pittsburgh Lewis said the story "is news to me. I don't know anything about it. Outside of that I have no comment."

If Lawrence should replace Schwartz with a Democrat, only one Republican would be left on the five-member commission.

normal lows are 18-to-21.

The extended forecast called for continued cold but with gradual moderating temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday and turning colder Thursday and Friday.

Meanwhile, the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission reported at 5 a.m. that a light snow was falling on the superhighway from Gateway on the Ohio Line to the Bedford Interchange. But the rest of the turnpike was clear.

RIVER ICE PROBLEM

The Weather Bureau reported the following 6 a.m. temperatures: Erie 10, Bradford 5, Brookville 6, Pittsburgh 11, Altoona 7, Philipsburg 6, Williamsport 5, Harrisburg 16, Wilkes-Barre 4, Allentown 1 and Philadelphia 14.

The Coast Guard reported Sunday that ice on the Delaware River will remain a problem for at least four more days, even if the current cold spell does let up some.

A spokesman at the Coast Guard station in Philadelphia said if the cold spell continues broken ice already in a 200-300 yard-wide channel a cutter has opened will freeze solid.

The Coast Guard said the ice north of Philadelphia was 3-12 inches thick along the borders of the channel and south of Philadelphia a 3-6 inches deep.

Charge Youth In Stabbing Student

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Daniel Duffy, 19, of Pittsburgh's Oakland section has been charged with assault with intent to kill in the stabbing of a freshman football player from the University of Pittsburgh.

Police said Robert Gutshall, 19, of Altoona, was stabbed three times in the stomach Sunday morning during a street brawl with Duffy in Oakland.

Gutshall was listed in satisfactory condition at Presbyterian Hospital following surgery.

Joseph Dickerson, 49, of the East Liberty section was charged with being an accessory after the fact of assault with intent to kill. He was accused of attempting to help Duffy escape.

Police said Duffy was put on a two-year probation just last December after he was arrested while attempting to burglarize a store.

The cause of the fight between Duffy and Gutshall was not learned, officers said.

Kennedy

"The outcome is by no means certain. The answers are by no means clear."

Kennedy said "we must re-examine and revise our whole arsenal of tools" for dealing with the threat to the free world—economic, political and diplomatic as well as military tools.

"We are moving into a period of uncertain risk in which both the military and diplomatic possibilities require a free world force so powerful as to make any aggression clearly futile," Kennedy said.

"TOWERING PROBLEMS" In the field of economic aid abroad, he called the problems towering and unprecedented.

"The response must be towering and unprecedented as well, much as lend-lease (in World War II) and the Marshall plan (of the post war years) were."

Kennedy singled out Latin-American countries for special aid after saying that "Communist agents seeking to exploit that region's peaceful revolution of hope have established a base on Cuba, only 90 miles from our shores."

STATE GOP IS COORDINATING POLICY PLANS

By HERB LINNEN

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's Republican leaders, mindful of next year's important election, are taking action to coordinate legislative policies with the party's State Committee.

This became evident Sunday night when State Chairman George I. Bloom sat down with Senate and House GOP leaders to discuss policy for the current General Assembly.

After a closed-door huddle at state party headquarters, the GOP leaders put out a statement criticizing the Lawrence administration for what they termed "ruthless methods" in getting its legislative programs approved.

BLOOM WAS THERE

But the significant thing about the meeting — from a political standpoint — was that Bloom was there.

Early in his tenure as state chairman, GOP legislative leaders had invited him to their policy meetings.

But somewhere along the line the practice was abandoned and all liaison between the GOP legislative leadership and State Committee practically ceased.

OTHERS ATTENDING

Emerging from Sunday night's meeting, Sen. James S. Berger, Potter, the Senate GOP floor leader, made it clear that from now on Bloom will be consulted.

That means, he added, that the chairman will be invited to policy meetings every Sunday before the legislature resumes work for the week.

Berger said the system will promote "coordination of our thinking concerning the handling of legislation."

There were 21 lawmakers at Sunday night's session, including members of the Senate and House GOP policy committees.

TAYLOR PRESENT

Also present was Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, the 84-year-old Harrisburg who for 15 years called the shots for the GOP in the Senate as president pro tempore.

There has been much speculation that it was Taylor who first became cool to the idea of having Bloom sit in on policy meetings.

Taylor lost out as pro tempore when Democrats earned an even split in the 50-member Senate at last November's election. That gave Democrats organizational control of the chamber for the first time in 22 years.

Political observers saw the move to include Bloom in future discussions as an attempt to forge a strong link with the State Committee on legislative policy — a policy that will be drafted with an eye to the 1962 election of a new governor.

WOULD RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

HARRISBURG (AP)—If Republican leaders offer him the nomination, State Sen. William Z. Scott, R-Carbon, says he will be glad to run for governor in 1962.

The 44-year-old Lansford lawyer's name has been among those most frequently mentioned as possible GOP gubernatorial timber next year.

"I would be tremendously honored if the leadership of my party saw fit to select me as the candidate," Scott said over the weekend. However, he added he had no immediate plans to campaign actively for the nomination.

SCOTT CANDIDACY

A possible Scott candidacy is being talked up by upstate Republicans as "Pennsylvania Republicans' answer to (President) John Kennedy." Like Kennedy, Scott is young and has an impressive record of World War II combat service.

On the prospects of the GOP in Pennsylvania, Scott said: "I am not one of those who think the Republican Party has seen its day in Pennsylvania."

Scott considers himself a middle-of-the-roader. He has frequently voted with Democrats on measures to promote industrial development programs and to increase unemployment compensation benefits.

His name was mentioned prominently when Republicans were lining up their statewide ticket in 1958. But the party leadership picked Arthur T. McGonigle, of Reading, as their gubernatorial candidate. He was defeated by Gov. Lawrence in a close contest.

Letter To The Editor

January 21, 1961

Mr. Paul Roy
c/o Gettysburg Times
Gettysburg, Pa.
Dear Mr. Roy:

Mr. Eisenhower who having been a public figure of a broad magnitude in the affairs of the "American Way of Life" during his military career and that of the presidency, and considering that his name has been pretty much in the limelight in international affairs in the tribunal of oratory and pace-setters, he had during his public life embarked upon waters of dissolution trying to resolve all nations to be cohesive in an effort to make this world a better place to live. We hope that Mr. Eisenhower shall not arrogate to himself a desire to pursue a life of complete leisure. He should continue to perpetuate the name of "Ike" upon the TV screen from time to time. The TV industry is always on the tree limb crying for a "booster shot" to survive its gunsmoke and westerners. It is men like Eisenhower who have dedicated to history great deeds that can help to keep alive our expectations of what the TV has to offer. In this complex world with its perplexing problems the people of Ike's generation would like to see him on the screen from time to time. As the old saying goes "Old soldiers never die."

Sincerely yours

P. J. Haggerty

NAME SPOPE'S IN COMPETITION

Swope's Atlantic Service Station is among the 443 stores chosen to compete for the 1960 "Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year" awards in 24 categories of retailing. This announcement was made today by Brand Names Foundation, Inc., New York City, sponsors of this annual competition.

Those chosen to compete were selected from the thousands of dealers enrolled through members of the foundation in that organization's brand selling program, which provides the dealer with a monthly service of information about the retail program, promotional ideas and materials, and news about successful brand promotions of other stores.

These 443 merchants, representing 47 of the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Canada, are invited to make detailed presentations of their advertising and promotion of manufacturers' advertised brands during 1960.

On the basis of these presentations, the judging panel, comprised of chief executives of stores who won the top-honor plaques in last year's competition will meet in mid-March and will select the winners for this year.

In 23 of the classifications, a first-place plaque and four "Certificates of Distinction" will be awarded. In the gasoline service stations category, the plaque is supplemented by a maximum of 14 certificates.

auguration of Brazilian President-elect Janio Quadros Tuesday.

Quadros gave assurance that if Galvao sails into a Brazilian port for safe discharge of the passengers, he will not seize the $16.6-million liner for return to her Portuguese owners. He also offered Galvao a haven.

WILL OFFER ASYLUM

The outgoing administration of President Juscelino Kubitschek decided Saturday to offer Galvao political asylum if he entered Brazilian waters, but to turn the Santa Maria back to her Portuguese owners, the Colonial Navigation Co.

The United States had proposed that Kubitschek permit the Santa Maria to enter a Brazilian port to discharge her passengers without threat of seizure.

U.S. officials in Brazil appeared relieved at the stand taken by Quadros, who succeeds Kubitschek at noon Tuesday in a ceremony at Brasilia, the new capital.

Faulty Wiring Is Cause Of Big Blaze

GALLITZIN, Pa. (AP)—Firemen have blamed faulty wiring for touching off a $100,000 blaze which destroyed a three-story frame building in Gallitzin and left five families homeless.

The fire broke out Sunday afternoon on the first floor of the building and within minutes spread to the other two floors and the roof.

Three walls of the building collapsed, showering rubble over a wide area. One of the walls fell on a new home nearby. Fire fighters tore down the other wall after the blaze was brought under control.

There were no injuries. The building, located in the heart of the this Cambria County community, housed a tavern, a restaurant and five apartments. Fire officials, who estimated the damage, said the building and everything in it was a total loss.

WHITE BOYCOTT DEFIED AGAIN

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A drug store clerk continued his defiance of a white boycott at integrated McDonough No. 0 school today—sending his 9-year-old son to the school for a second day.

John N. Thompson, 33, father of six, sent his eldest child Gregory to McDonough in a car with two U. S. marshals.

Gregory went to the school for the first time Friday. It was the scene of angry mass picketing in November.

Today, a crowd of 35 angry neighborhood women and men surged across the street onto the neutral ground, yelling—"Nigger lover. Go home. Go home."

The marshals hustled the boy into the school building. Police ordered the women off the neutral ground—restricted to newsmen—and back across the street.

Nippy weather in the mid-30's held down the number of pickets. But it was the largest throng at the scene since the picketing was at its height following the Nov. 14 integration.

Also on the scene today was police Supt. Joseph Giarrusso, U. S. Marshal Edward F. Pettibon and about 15 newsmen.

Thompson earlier had said he would send a second son—8-year-old Michael—to McDonough if the boy had recovered from a spell of asthma. However, Michael was not seen.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Speech Of Hon. Edward McPherson: Our representative, Mr. McPherson, made a very able speech in the House of Representatives on Wednesday last. We had hoped to give a synopsis of it this week, but several days in disposition prevented us. We expect to do so next week. It does honor to him. He thinks the Union will not be destroyed—but will be saved by that ever-living, ever thinking mass.

Attempt To Rob: An attempt to rob the store of Messrs. Norbeck and Martin, in this place, was made about 9 o'clock, on Friday evening last. The store had been closed, and Mr. Martin going back to get some change, the thief suddenly made off, and by his nimble heels eluded pursuit. He got some five or six dollars out of the drawer, in his hurry leaving an equal amount in it. The thief was a colored individual.

Woman Prisoner Dies: A woman confined in the county Prison was taken ill with spasms week before last, and although medical aid was immediately summoned she died after lingering in an unconscious state for several days. Some persons have seen the case, as her young child was with her in the same cell, breathing the same atmosphere, and yet was lively and hearty. It is not likely that the mother should be over powered by the gas, and the child show no similar effects.

Ladies' Fair: The Ladies' Fair for the benefit of St. James' Lutheran Church held in Sheeds and Buehler's Hall during the early part of last week was a decided success, attracting crowded houses. The fair was admirably gotten up, and proceeds, we learn, were quite handsome.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Soldiers' Home: The Pennsylvania Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Erie will be formally opened Feb. 22. The accommodations are limited to 200, giving each legislative district as many admissions as it has members of Assembly. This will give Adams county two.

The applicant must make oath to the truth of his statement, and forward it, with his discharge, to the Secretary, giving his name, age, occupation, place of birth, residence now and at the time of enlistment, and all the facts required for a full personal or military history.

Accidentally Shot: On Tuesday Fred M. Ott, Esq., Solicitor for Dauphin county, was shot in the groin by Fred Fink, a Lebanon county constable, inflicting a serious and possibly fatal wound. Mr. Ott and Senator Thompson were in the law library consulting about a case, when Fink remarked that he had arrested a man and taken a revolver from him, and at the same time pulled the weapon from his hip pocket. He was facing Ott and in some way, as Fink was handling the pistol, it discharged, the ball striking Ott in the side of the abdomen. He fell to the floor, physicians were summoned, and he was taken to the hospital. At last accounts the case was regarded very critical. It was not deemed prudent to probe for the ball.

Mr. Ott is a promising young lawyer, aged 35 years. He graduated from Pennsylvania College with the class of '70, and was admitted to the bar in 1873.

Services: The General Synod of the Lutheran church having recommended that the last Sabbath in January be observed as a day of prayer for colleges and educational institutions, there were special exercises in Christ church on Sunday, Rev. F. W. Conrad, D.D., of Philadelphia, preaching morning and evening. There were also devotional exercises at the college at 3 p.m.

Today's Talk

THE DOCTORS' BIG JOB
I am amazed when I read of all that is being done by the doctors of the world to keep people alive, healthier and happier. They kept our former President well and happy through two terms—almost!

People today are the doctors' responsibility. And so are those who aid them in their work—the nurses.

The doctors plant confidence and courage in their patients' minds.

The skill of these specialists is being manifested every day of the year. Doctors are devoting their lives to the job of keeping those under their care full of cheer and hope.

Those familiar two letters—M.D.—are among the most significant initials in this world. And filled with pride is every one who worked to own them!

Doctors lock arms with the scientists today and many there are who have made discoveries that have placed their names high in the skylight of fame. But doctors are not boasters, these M.D. men are modest ones and are forever studying to rise higher in their profession.

All glory to doctors all!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Hurts"

TWO WATCHES
I have a watch, and so has he, But mine is a watch which a friend gave me, And the one he carries bears never a thought;

It's a thing he saw and one day bought. His is a costlier watch than mine, But it hasn't within it a friendly line

Engraved on the case with date and name, Declaring the love from which it came.

His watch is jeweled and rich and rare, And fit to be worn by a millionaire.

But he bought it himself, as he buys his shoes, Or anything else which he wants to use.

There isn't a word on its golden case, There isn't a memory he can trace.

His watch, though shaped of the finest gold, Is merely something that some one sold.

He has a watch, and so have I, But his is one which he chanced to buy;

And I think more of my watch than he, Because from a friend it came to me.

Sen. Clark To Seek Re-election

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., says he will seek reelection to a second term in Congress next year and that he is confident two of the state's top Democratic leaders will support him.

But when informed of Clark's weekend statements made in an interview, one of the leaders the senator mentioned, Gov. David L. Lawrence, declined comment.

The other leader Clark named, Rep. William J. Green, D-Pa., who also is Philadelphia's Democratic chairman, was not available for comment.

Lawrence and Green, both of whom have been mentioned as possible candidates for the Senate seat, previously had declined either to endorse Clark or say they would oppose his renomination.

Harvesting Ice

Three workers harvest ice on Lake Winnepesaukee while New England shivers for the 10th straight day on Saturday in what is probably the coldest winter in nearly a quarter century. The 16-inch ice cakes are lifted out of the water, put on a truck and transported to a boys' camp icehouse a mile away from the lake at Wolfeboro, N. H., to be used for refrigeration and drinking water. (AP Wirephoto)

To Quiz Youth On Carrying Gun

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Police here said today they would go to New Jersey Tuesday to question a 19-year-old Easton youth being held there on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

Blaine John Balliet was arrested in Scotch Plains, N. J., Saturday and taken to Union County Jail in Elizabeth, N. J., to await grand jury action.

He was arrested after Mrs. Charles Brownold, of Easton, reported to police that a youth entered her car in Easton and forced her at gunpoint to drive to Scotch Plains. Mrs. Brownold's 8-year-old daughter, Patricia, also was in the car.

Police arrested Balliet when he walked into a local gas station allegedly carrying a loaded .22-caliber pistol in his belt. Officers quoted him as giving no reason for his action, but admitting being drunk.

Rutgers' Late Flurry
Downs Bullets 69-65;
Bucknell Here Thursday

A flurry of seven straight points in the last two minutes of the game enabled Rutgers University to walk off with a 69-65 victory over the Gettysburg College basketball team Saturday night in a Middle Atlantic Conference clash in New Brunswick, N. J.

The Bullets, who sagged during parts of the contest, held a slim 63-62 lead with 3:36 remaining in the game. At 2:28 Icie Annemman swished a hook shot, Doug Patton landed a jump Al Ammerman hit on two of two fouls and Karl Strelecki added another free throw. With 13 seconds remaining, Rutgers now held the upper hand 69-63. Ron Warner tapped in a rebound to close out the scoring.

The encounter was nip and tuck from start to finish. Both squads matched one another, point for point. Midway through the first half Gettysburg built a 14-8 lead, but this was checked by a sudden spurt by the Scarlet. The Bullets led 37-36 at half.

LEAD CHANGES

Rutgers came back in the second half and went ahead by 10 points on the sharp shooting of Doug Patton. Bill Hemming, Ted Koerner and Ron Warner brought the Bullets back to life to move in front 63-62.

During the see-saw second half, Gettysburg went eight straight minutes without scoring a goal. Ron Warner was the game's leading scorer with 29 tallies. Doug Patton, Rutgers' senior standout, tallied 21 points and brought his career total to 1,020 points. Warner, only a junior, has now tallied 902 points.

Bob Hulston's cagers are 8-5 on the season and 3-3 in MAC action. Rutgers is 6-6 on the year and is 3-3 in the Middle Atlantic.

Both Gettysburg teams will be in action Thursday night. The varsity will entertain Bucknell with the yearling squads clashing in the 6:45 preliminary. The Bullets defeated Bucknell in the season's opener 72-66 at Lewisburg while the Baby Bisons downed John Carpenter's frosh team on the same night.

MISS RUDOLPH
NAMED AS AP
LADY ATHLETE

By MARVIN BEARD

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—It's tough to keep ahead of Wilma Rudolph on a cinder track, but when it comes to talking, the slim speedster prefers to listen.

The Clarksville, Tenn., girl who raced to three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics was named female athlete of the year for 1960 Saturday.

Characteristically, this was her brief response: "I'm very happy. And I guess I was surprised."

But gold medals are not handed out for loquacity. Behind the shyness is a determination that has carried the 130-pound Tennessee A&I sophomore to the pinnacle of the track world, overcoming a crippled foot in childhood.

365 POINTS

In The Associated Press year-end poll of sports writers and broadcasters, Wilma was named first on 115 of the 120 ballots. She received 365 points on a 3-2-1 basis, easily outdistancing swimmer Chris Von Saltza, another winner of three gold medals, who received 126. World and Olympic figure skating champion Carol Heiss—now Mrs. Hayes Alan Jenkins—was third with 101.

Darlene Hard was a distant fourth and Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 winner, was fifth. Both are tennis players.

Wilma's coach, Ed Temple, termed the award "a tremendous honor that couldn't be given to a more deserving person."

"She certainly has proved herself one of the world's greatest athletes," Temple said.

DELONE DOWNS
HANOVER 49-45
ON LATE RALLY

A run of seven straight points early in the last period carried the Delone Catholic High cagers to a 49-45 victory over Hanover Saturday evening at McSherrystown in a rough game which saw 45 personal fouls and one technical called by the officials. The victory avenged a previous Squire loss at Hanover.

Delone lost Ron Riley and "Boomy" Weaver via fouls while Hanover lost Dan Carn and Larry Wentz the same way.

The game was close throughout, Hanover holding a 21-20 lead at half time and entering the last period on top 34-30.

Riley converted two fouls for Delone as Carn fouled out to open the last period. Wentz retaliated with a goal for Hanover. At that point Delone put on its winning spurt. Jeff Wagman hit on a set and Dick Neiderer drove through for a lay-up and Wagman came back with a three-pointer as the Squires led 39-36 with 3:33 left.

CLOSE FINISH

Carroll Granger netted two fouls for Hanover before Boomy Weaver hit on a goal for Delone. Jim Good and Granger converted free tosses for the Hawks to cut the Delone lead to 41-40 with 1:34 remaining. Neiderer and Jim Weaver sank goals in succession for Delone to wrap it up, Leister netting a foul for Hanover and Granger a goal as time ran out.

Hanover's subs won the preliminary 39-37.

Delone, 7-5 overall, will play at York Catholic on Friday in a CPCL game.

Hanover, now 5-11 for the season, comes here Tuesday evening to meet the Gettysburg High Warriors as the second half of the South Penn League gets underway.

BAYER SECOND

Bayer, the 240-pound ex-Washington football player who shared the league throne with three rounds, shot even par 71 but he couldn't cope with young Player's sensational birdie shooting in the rain.

Kroll settled for 274 while Bayer, the tournament veteran who had started the last round tied with Bayer, fell back to 276. Don Whitt came up strong over the sudden 6,672-yard Harding Park mire with a five-under-par 66 to tie Bayer at 274. The two collected $3,800 each.

"I've played all over the world and never encountered worse weather than we had today," Player said.

Don January and young Al Gelberger were tied at 275, Jay Herbert came up even with Kroll at 276 and a stroke farther back at 277 came Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Jackie Burke Jr., Ken Venturi and Canadian Stan Leonard.

Gardner Dickinson and Charlie Sifford, the only Negro playing on the tour and the only one competing in this tournament, were tied at 278.

In taking $9,000 first pro money and $500 additional in the one-day pro-amateur event that preceded the International, Player boosted his 1961 tournament earnings to $12,672.

Ingemar Training
In Secret 2 Days

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson's training schedule moved into high gear today and the Swedish boxer said he will be ready when he faces Floyd Patterson in the Miami Beach Convention Hall March 13.

"I know the mistakes I made the last time we met," Johansson said. "Naturally, Patterson knows them, too. I'm sure he will be looking for me to make them again, but I won't."

"How I'll correct them is my own secret. That is why I would like to work in privacy two days a week."

Johansson said his camp will be closed to press and public on Thursday and Friday each week.

XAVIER CAGERS
WIN 1ST HALF;
TAKE TWO MORE

St. Francis Xavier School's unbeaten basketball squad captured the first half title of the Catholic League over the weekend when it recorded its 10th and 11th victories of the season, the title being won Sunday by downing St. Vincent's, of Hanover, 28-21 here before a record crowd.

Sunday's game was particularly hard-fought with neither team able to pull away. At half time the score was 9-9. In the third frame the Red Raiders outshot their opponents 11-5. Improved foul shooting on the part of the Raiders played a big role in the victory.

Phil Johnson turned in his best game of the season with 15 points and gathering in rebounds off both boards.

In Saturday's contest, a strong first half carried the Raiders to a 38-20 victory over St. Rose of Lima, York. They led 23-13 at half time and the reserves played much of the second half. Charles Abell tallied 11 points and John Keller and Ron Redding 10 each. The local fifth and sixth graders also won a pair, downing St. Rose 21-6 and St. Vincent's 12-6. Mike Baker and Phil Wisotzky led the attack.

Next Sunday Coach Al Lovett takes his squad to Hanover to meet St. Joseph's, beaten here in the first half 38-17, for the opening game of the second half race.

HAMILTON AND CAREY VOTED IN FAME HALL

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Max Carey and the late Billy Hamilton are the latest additions to baseball's Hall of Fame. The two former National League center fielders, famed for their base-stealing ability, will be inducted formally July 24 at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Carey, 70, holder of the modern National League record for stolen bases with 738 in a 20-year career from 1910 to 1929 with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, said in Miami Beach, Fla., he was "happy and proud of the honor of being selected." Max expects to be on hand personally when his plaque is dedicated.

DIED IN 1940

Hamilton, who died in 1940, was one of the truly great stars of the pre-1900 days of baseball. He had a lifetime batting average of .344 while playing with Philadelphia and Boston from 1890 to 1901. Known as "Sliding Billy," he stole 797 bases, the all-time league record, in that span and also stole 140 with Kansas City in the American Association which considered itself a major league. If those were counted his total would be 937.

The two men were named Sunday by the veterans' committee, headed by Warren Brown of the Chicago American, which considers only men who have been inactive as players for at least 30 years. It was their first chance to honor Carey who previously had been under the jurisdiction of the baseball writers who select from among those out of baseball at least five years but not more than 30.

President Quadros, Brazil, Faces Food Shortage, Labor Trouble, Commy Pressure

Editor's Note — Brazil, most populous nation in the Western Hemisphere after the United States, enters a new era Tuesday with inauguration of a president exactly the age of President Kennedy. Here is a report on the prospects, written by AP's globe-trotting news analyst, currently on a tour of Latin America.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A new leadership is about to take over in Brazil, a stirring giant of a country where thinking people seem suddenly aware of its vast possibilities and its growing complex of political and economic dangers.

Janio Quadros, school-teacherish, enigmatic man sometimes called a political genius, takes his oath as president Tuesday. He will plunge into a sea of trouble. Time is his most urgent need, and he hasn't much of it in which to perform on the promises and hopes which elected him to office.

Just a few of his problems: Brazil suffers from a variety of agricultural crises. A violent inflation outruns lower and middle incomes. A struggle is in prospect with labor, now the target of increased Communist pressure. There is a dangerous bread crisis in the offing. A variety of external pressures can force Quadros to compromise with leftists and extremists.

POTENTIALITIES

And some of the potentialities: Many Brazilians seem determined to awaken their country from a long apathy that brought economic stagnation. They see now a chance to open up the huge undeveloped interior and make Brazil, in a matter of a decade, a mighty force in the world. They see a chance for reforms attacking the enormous evils of poverty and disease.

Brazilians express concern with the growth of Communist strength in the labor movement and—especially in the poor northeast—among despairing farmers living on the razor edge of starvation. The Communists are relatively small in numbers—possibly 40,000 or so—for a nation of 60 million, but they make up for that in organization and discipline. They have a hold on the leadership of many a labor union.

Brazilians are concerned, too, with a perceptible undercurrent of unrest that can rise to the surface any time, particularly if there should be a new wheat crisis.

IMPORTS WHEAT

Brazil imports her wheat. But now she no longer can afford the outlay of foreign exchange for import of food. Only hasty action by the United States is staying off a wheat crisis now, and another may rise again in six more months.

Communism is considered, both by Brazilians and foreign observers, a much greater danger than Castroism. Communists have been making alliances with nationalist elements. The party grows stronger rapidly, and this may have been a factor in deciding Quadros to make gestures in the direction of Fidel Castro of Cuba.

He visited Castro in Havana last March but said later he would be the first to condemn a Communist Cuba.

LITTLE IMPACT

Castro himself normally would have little impact in Brazil. The Yankee-baiting Cuban prime minister is considered an unbalanced outcast by many Brazilians.

In addition, Brazil has been a good friend of the United States—possibly the best in the hemisphere. Brazilians themselves are friendly.

But Castroism has an indirect impact by demonstrating the potency of violent action in focusing attention on nations' woes. That is how the Communists of Brazil use Castroism.

ELECTION WAS SETBACK

The Communists appear to detest Quadros, and his election was a setback for them. There are indications they will do their best to give him a bad time as quickly as possible, primarily in the field of labor.

Some Brazilians say Quadros' expressed intention of renewing diplomatic relations with the U.S.S.R. and recognizing Red China indicates an attempt to buy time, to keep extremists off his back while he turns attention to cures for Brazil's major economic troubles.

ATTACK BIGGER PROBLEMS

Given a little time, Quadros likely will attack the biggest problem, inflation, first. This may require some austerity measures. When he tries this he can expect trouble from labor, egged on by Communist union leadership.

Brazilian law limits union activity. The labor ministry can intervene in union affairs. Yet there have been strikes recently, even against the government, in defiance of the law. And there will be a drive for union independence from the labor ministry, whose efforts under President Juscelino Kubitschek kept Communist influence from growing more swiftly.

RIISING COSTS IMPORTANT TO FAMILY BUDGET

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy today joins President Eisenhower in setting forth the state of the Union.

But for millions of Americans the state of the family's economy is pretty well summed up in another report: The rising cost of living.

And the slide rule boys, without much of a glance at world and domestic political turmoil, think that the outlook for the index of consumer prices is in for more of the same.

OTHER COSTS, TOO

That is, still rising. Slowly, probably. But surely.

The family heads, furthermore, know that the index doesn't cover everything. There are other costs that keep going up. The cost of putting the children through school, for example. The cost now looming on the horizon of updating the womenfolk in line with the latest fashion news from Paris. The cost of many another on a long list of items that deal with status—in the neighborhood, at the office.

Maybe these don't belong in a factual index like the Bureau of Labor Statistic's one on consumer prices. This considers the things that the average middle-income family in cities buy.

ALWAYS THOSE EXTRAS

The BLS changes the contents of the index from time to time, to keep up with changing consumer habits. But always there are those extras—the ones that the family income earner learns about quickly, even if the BLS doesn't.

It's index covers plenty of things, however. Almost all of them have gone up this past year. The BLS officials say price levels probably will go right on creeping higher this year, as they did last year.

UP TWO MONTHS

The BLS index uses the 1947-49 average as a base of 100. It reports the December figure as 127.5. A year ago the index was 125.5.

Biggest gainer, both in 1960 and in the long haul since the 1947-49 era is medical care. It is now carried at 158.0, a really whopping rise. In 1960 it went up 4.8 from the 153.2 a year ago.

The next biggest advance over the stretch from the starting point is rent, now 142.8, and up 2.0 in the last year.

BIGGEST CULPRIT

Food, however, is the biggest culprit of recent weeks. Much of the latest price rise is blamed on bad weather that sent up delivery costs and caused shortages. That part of the index is now 121.4, a gain of 3.6 in a year.

The BLS lists other year-to-year rises as follows: Gas and electricity, up 2.9; housing and recreation, each up 1.9; apparel, up 1.4.

Then we come to the heroes in the latest figures on the index, those that are lower than in December 1959.

LIST OF HEROES

Transportation is down by 2.2. Much of the drop is credited to

KENNEDY GIVES LIGHTER TOUCH TO HIS OFFICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is going in for less formality in his White House office—logs burning in the fireplace, flanked by two comfortable sofas, with a coffee table in between.

Kennedy has had the oval presidential office repainted from pale green to off-white and ordered pictures of George Washington and other historical predecessors removed in favor of stirring naval battle scenes.

Reporters got a weekend look at the executive office after Kennedy vetoed the green walls which had just been freshly redone for him in the same color favored by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

WAR MEMENTO

Kennedy has on his desk some bookends left over from Eisenhower. They feature gold eagles mounted on a navy blue base with five gold stars—the insignia of a general of the army. The bookends hold a copy of the Bible, a world Almanac and two books written by Kennedy himself.

On Kennedy's desk are the beginnings of what looks like a comfortable permanent clutter: a coconut shell war memento, a favorite pair of daggers paper weight and an ash tray to service his occasional cigars.

The coconut shell, encased in plastic, is the one scratched with an SOS message which Kennedy sent with a native for help when he was marooned on a Pacific island after his PT boat was cut in two by a Japanese destroyer during World War II.

What's likely to go up more? Well, bad weather could keep food higher for a time, and this year's crops are still in the weatherman's hands.

As for the rest, there are the conflicting forces: Competition holding down prices of many goods, but warring with rising production costs. And there's still no sign that the cost of services has reached a peak.

Hanover Borough Tax Is Boosted

Hanover borough council in a brief session Saturday approved a tentative general fund budget of $772,038 for the operation and improvement of the municipality this year. It is supported in part by a 15-mill tax on real estate, a four-mill increase over last year's levy of 11 mills.

The budget was approved without a dissenting vote. It is scheduled for final adoption February 15.

The new tax rate will yield the borough $184,468.27, an increase of $49,741.83 over the 1960 revenue from the same source, according to the budget.

The tax rate in Hanover was increased by five mills in 1958, from 15 to 20. The rate was lowered to 11 last year when the new valuations under the county-wide reassessment program became effective.

Add a little pickle relish, grated onion and lemon juice to mayonnaise and serve as a sauce for fried or broiled fish.

FRIENDLY ROBBER

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Taxi driver John Shelley's nomination for the friendliest robber on record is a passenger who drew a revolver, robbed him and then forced Shelley to accompany him on a round of taverns. They spent the money on drinks. Shelley then hailed a pair of policemen and had his host, a former convict, arrested.

TOWN HIT BY 4 FIRES, 8 DAYS

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—Two costly fires broke out Sunday in this Southern California farm city, shaken by four spectacular blazes in the last eight days.

Officials said they found no evidence linking the fires to union organizing strikes that have hit nearby Imperial Valley fields, which provide 80 per cent of the nation's winter lettuce.

Police arrested a 15-year-old boy and three laborers for investigation of arson.

One of the fires Sunday caused the temporary evacuation of 500 persons because of dangerous fumes.

Investigators said at least three of the fires, within a two-block radius, were the work of arsonists. Total loss from the four blazes was estimated at $275,000.

The two blazes Sunday occurred within a 2½-hour period. Five firemen were treated at a hospital for smoke inhalation and minor injuries.

Million Operations Are Performed Annually In U.S.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

WHERE IS STIEGEL BURIED?
The material on Henry William Stiegel, his life and works is continued at this time with further data on the place of his death and burial.

To this day people who live in the neighborhood of Charming Forge, Berks County, Pennsylvania, will point out the windows in the northeast corner room, on the second floor, of the old mansion house as the one in which Stiegel died. At the time of his death, so the story goes, a blizzard was raging and it was extremely cold. George Ege was in the mansion house at the time of the storm effectively blocked the removal of the body. There was nothing to do but keep the unwelcome guest until such time as other arrangements could be made. A crude vault of planks and plaster was built in the cellar and in this Stiegel was laid.

DIFFER ON BURIAL PLACE

As soon as possible word of her father's death was sent to Elizabeth (Stiegel) Old for George Ege naturally thought that she would want Stiegel buried by the side of her mother, Elizabeth (Huber) Stiegel, in the churchyard at Brickerville, Lancaster County. Apparently Mrs. Old had no interest in the matter and did not bother to acknowledge the message sent by George Ege. This left the matter of the burial entirely in the hands of the Ege family. One version of the Charming Forge tradition states that Stiegel was buried in the orchard beside his mother, Dorothea Elisabeth Stiegel, and that not long afterwards the body of Anthony Stiegel was brought from Schaeferstown and interred here also.

Another Charming Forge tradition agrees with the one given above in every respect—save the location of Stiegel's grave. This version locates the grave in the Ege family burial plot, in the Womelsdorf Cemetery. Of course the grave was never marked.

POTTER'S FIELD

This third site pointed out as the location of Stiegel's grave is the burial ground, or Potter's Field, of the old poor farm at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. There is a rather vague bit of folklore to the effect that Stiegel, long after he became a bankrupt, was paid a debt of some five hundred dollars. With this money he proceeded to go on a "grand and glorious spree" and chose Harrisburg as the place to spend his unexpected windfall. In a short time the money had "changed hands" and Stiegel was a bit foggy in mind, the after effects—no doubt—of a strictly liquid diet. In some way or other he made his way to the Poor Farm, where he was taken in and cared for—after a fashion. A few days later he died—without revealing his name or place of residence. The authorities had no choice but to bury the unknown stranger in the plot provided by the county for just such unfortunates. The grave, of course, was never marked.

HAD WEAK POINTS

This tradition has a number of weak points. In the first place there is absolutely no evidence that Stiegel drank to excess, even under the lash of despair and misfortune. His account books show that he purchased rum for his employees from time to time—but not for himself. If Stiegel had been an intemperate man surely this choice morsel would have been included, with the customary exaggeration, in the folklore that almost obscures the man.

Secondly there is no record of such a debt being paid to Stiegel. Even if he had received a small sum, payment of an old score, a man who "lived from hand to mouth," if not sometimes in actual want, would hardly waste the money to purchase a few days' forgetfulness. In addition Stiegel's creditors and the trustees in his bankruptcy would have something to say on that subject—for he was still deeply in debt. Also this story places the time of his death in 1815—the latest any tradition mentions him as living.

NOT IN PAUPER'S GRAVE

Taking everything into consideration and weighing all the facts, both for and against, it seems to be fairly certain that the once proud Stiegel does not rest in a pauper's grave. He was spared this final ignominy.

In the graveyard of Emanuel (old Warwick) Lutheran Church at Brickerville, Lancaster County, is the grave of Elizabeth (Huber) Stiegel, the first wife of Henry William Stiegel. The young husband bought the lot on which she is buried at the time of her death in 1758. The only other marked grave thereon is that of Stiegel's grandson, James, the three-year-old son of William and Elizabeth (Stiegel) Old.

There is sufficient space in this plot for another full-sized grave. But, according to the records, no one is buried there. Tradition alone is responsible for the story "that for reasons of sentiment" it was the desire of Stiegel to be interred at the side of his first wife. Attempts to trace the story to the time and place of origin were unsuccessful. One thing is certain it did not originate with the Ege or Old families.

LACKED SENTIMENT

When Stiegel's entire life is viewed by the unprejudiced observer one trait is found to be outstanding—his almost total lack of sentiment. Elizabeth Huber was

State Is Seeking Special Food Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has been quoted as saying he will give thought to the possibility of special aid for Pennsylvania in the handling and storing of surplus government foods.

Freeman met Friday with Andrew M. Bradley, Pennsylvania secretary of property and supplies, in the office of Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

Bradley, who reported on Freeman's reaction, said he had asked special assistance for 59 Pennsylvania counties participating in the federal foods program. He said he also had discussed with Freeman the possibility of adding a greater variety of foods to list of those made available to needy persons.

CHINA TALKS POSTPONED

WARSAW (AP)—The U.S. Embassy in Warsaw has announced the postponement of U.S.-Red Chinese talks here on a renewed bid for the release of five Americans still held in Chinese jails.

The meeting between U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam and Communist Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan had been scheduled for Feb. 2. A U.S. Embassy statement said both sides had agreed to put off the meeting until March 7 "for administrative reasons."

An embassy spokesman refused to say whether the initiative for the postponement had come from the Chinese side.

U.S. officials in Washington said Friday they decided to press Communist China again for the release of the imprisoned Americans after the Soviet Union freed two U.S. RB47 pilots.

The Warsaw meetings have been held at roughly monthly intervals since 1957. The next meeting will be the 103rd.

the means to an end. The Rev. Henry Melchior Muhlenberg wrote in his diary of Stiegel, whom he knew rather well—"He came to this part of the world as a young man without means. At first he served some prominent English merchants as clerk, but as a result of his crafty mind and great ability, and also as a result of his first marriage . . ." It is not too much to presume that Elizabeth (Huber) Stiegel was soon forgotten by her husband. Had it not been for the two daughters, born of their union, her comparatively short life would have left no visible mark on Stiegel's life. Eight months after Elizabeth Huber's death Stiegel married again. For one marriage to follow another in such a short space of time was not unusual for that day—but surely it was not the act of a grief-stricken widower or even that of a man who cherished a sentimental regard for one he had loved and lost.

The notes on Stiegel's burial place will be continued in this column next week.

3 FROM STATE HELD IN SOUTH

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Three Pennsylvanians were being held here for extradition to that state where they are wanted for holdup, robbery and kidnapping.

Taken in custody Friday were William Jadosz, 19, of Easton, and Wallace J. Rice, 18, and Sandra Heilman, 19, both of Catawqua.

The three, charged with being fugitives from justice, were arrested here after police received a tip they were in Norfolk.

The two boys escaped from Alantown State Hospital Jan. 17. They were being held for observation at the mental hospital.

Police said the boys then lived in an unoccupied home near the hospital until the owners, Clarence Diehl and Arthur Bailey, returned.

Then, investigators said, the two men were taken at gunpoint in their own car and driven 75 miles into the Pocono Mountains where they were released unharmed. The boys stole another car and drove into Bethlehem.

There they met the girl who bought train tickets for all of them and they came to Norfolk. When police found them, the trio had only the clothes they were wearing and very little money. All waived extradition.

Truck, Wagon Drop In Old Mine Hole

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A mail truck and a station wagon dropped into a hole which suddenly opened on a street in nearby Luzerne.

A car rolled past the edge of the 30-by-25 foot hole, but stopped with its front wheels dangling in air.

The three vehicles had been parked and were empty. No one was injured.

The hole was a result of mine subsidence, officials said.

Luzerne is in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite area. Most of the coal mines are closed and in disrepair. Cave-ins such as the one Friday are not uncommon.

ASKS HEARING TO LEAVE JAIL

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A hearing will be held in U.S. Circuit Court at Philadelphia Feb. 6 on the question of whether former Pennsylvania Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance is physically able to continue serving a jail term.

Torrance, who began serving his term Tuesday, was ordered released from Dauphin County Prison on $5,000 bond pending a hearing.

The order was handed down here Friday by Judge Austin P. Staley of Circuit Court. Jail officials said Torrance would be released as soon as bond is posted.

Judge Staley said the U.S. District Court at Harrisburg would hear arguments on the question next Wednesday.

But the State Justice Dept., claiming District Court had no jurisdiction, asked for a special hearing before Circuit Court in Philadelphia. The hearing then was set for Feb. 6.

Torrance's attorney claims the 71-year-old former turnpike commissioner has a hypersensitive heart condition that will threaten his life in prison.

Torrance and three other men began serving the jail terms last Tuesday on charges of defrauding

Jane Freeman:

She Likes Energy, Ideals

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If Washington isn't Jane Freeman's cup of tea, it'll certainly be her cup of coffee.

Jane—Mrs. Orville L. Freeman—helped get her husband elected to three terms as governor of Minnesota by sipping coffee, attending six coffee parties a day plus a luncheon in the heavy campaigning period.

She's never lived on a farm but says she's learned plenty from farm wives about the problems her husband will face in his new post as secretary of agriculture.

Mrs. Freeman, 39, is a trim 5-4. She's dark-haired, with a ready smile and a vivacious manner.

Born in Winston-Salem, N. C., the former Jane C. Shields came to Minnesota in time to finish high school and attend the University of Minnesota where she earned a degree in political science.

She met Freeman at the university when both were elected to student government posts.

She was attracted to him by his great energy and idealism. At approximately the same time, she says, Freeman was attending

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A leading Indian newspaper said today Britons who criticized Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip for hunting tigers don't know much about tigers—or Indians, either.

The Indian Express said Indians regard hunting tigers "as a sport and often a necessity," the newspaper said, and Britons who believe it is a slaughter of dumb animals "are wholly out of touch with general Indian opinion."

Many animal lovers in Britain and some newspapers rapped the touring royal couple after the prince shot a tiger Jan. 24 near Jaipur.

ing law school, working on the school's law review and playing football, as well as paying his own way through school by working at odd hours.

They were married in 1942 in Washington, D. C., while Freeman was with the Marine Corps at Quantico, Va. Their two children are Constance, 15, and Michael, 12.

LOVES FISHING

Mrs. Freeman loves fishing and one of her proudest possessions is a stuffed and mounted sailfish, all 6 feet, 8 inches of it gracing the Freeman's living room wall.

"The kids get tired of it but I just love to tell about catching that fish," she says. She landed it in 1938 on a post-election vacation in Florida.

She likes to garden, read serious magazines of commentary, histories and biographies. Her hobbies also include swimming, collecting little china and pottery donkeys.

Minnesota has no state-owned governor's mansion in Minneapolis so that Freemans have kept their home closed to all but close friends, doing their official hosting at clubs and hotels.

Mrs. Freeman was listed as one of the "10 best dressed women in the news" in Minnesota in 1957 and probably could make the list most any year.

The dictates of fashion aren't completely accepted by her, but she admits to keeping her hemlines measured to the current trends. Clothes purchases, however, are usually made with an eye to use over a long period, she says.

On a "Sell Minnesota" trip to California in 1957, a West Coast writer neatly wrapped up the impression Mrs. Freeman has on most persons. He said: "One of Minnesota's nicest scenic attractions is married to its governor."

COLLIER: In sweet loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles Elmer Collier, who passed away one year ago today, January 30, 1960.

Softly the stars are gleaming Upon a precious grave Where sleepeth one with our dreaming.

One we loved, but could not save. Surrounded by friends, I am lone-some.

In the midst of my joys, I'm blue; With a smile on my face I've a heartache.

Longing, dear husband, for you. Your thoughts were so full of us You never could forget.

And so we must think, Charles, where you are You must be watching yet.

Charles, you did not fail to do your best; Your heart was true and tender; You worked so hard for the ones you loved.

And we will always remember. Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand,

Your dear, kind face to see, Your loving smile, your welcome voice.

That meant so much to me. No one knows the silent heart-ache.

FLOOR PLAN OF FORD THEATER WILL HELP NPS

Discovery of the original floor plan of the orchestra and parquette sections of Ford's Theater, scene of the assassination of President Lincoln, will enable the National Park Service to make a more accurate restoration of the historic shrine than otherwise would have been possible reported John C. O'Brien in his "Washington Background" column in Thursday's edition of The Philadelphia Inquirer.

He reported further that since restoration of the theater, a part of the Lincoln Museum National Memorial, was included in the National Park Service Mission 66, a persistent search for the original floor plan has been conducted.

Until the recent find, however, the only known sketch of the theater's orchestra floor was one drawn from memory by John T. Ford, presumably shortly after Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth on the night of April 14, 1865. Ford's drawing was discovered in October, 1960, in the papers of Thomas Ewing Jr. in the Library of Congress.

FIND ANOTHER PLAN

This plan probably would have been used as a guide to the restoration of the theater had not Stanley W. McClure, historian at the Lincoln Museum, learned about a floor plan in the Harvard College Library theater collection.

At first it was thought that the plan in the Harvard collection was a duplicate of the floor plan of the dress circle already in the Lincoln Museum collection. But in the course of correspondence with the Harvard authorities it was found that the plan in the Harvard collection was a detailed floor plan executed by a firm of lithographers in Baltimore two years before the assassination of Lincoln.

Entitled "plan of the seats in orchestra and parquette of Ford's new theater, 10th St., Washington, D. C.," the lithograph showed not only the arrangement of the seats but the exact number of seats in each section and details of the lobby.

BOX SEATS $6, $10

On the original plan there were 315 orchestra seats in nine rows, 297 seats in seven rows in the parquette. The larger number of orchestra seats, compared with parquette seats, accounts, it is believed, for the fact that the playbill for the performance witnessed by Lincoln showed orchestra seats at $1, parquette and dress circle seats at 75 cents, family circle seats at 25 cents, private boxes at $6 and $10.

On the night of the assassination, Lincoln and his party were occupying one of the four boxes, which are shown in the floor plan to have overhung the stage. Booth, it will be recalled, injured his leg leaping from the box to the stage after firing at the President. During flight he was attended by Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, a Maryland physician, who later was sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in Booth's crime but was pardoned after serving for a short time.

Before the discovery of the floor

Mrs. Margaret McNamara:

Reluctant In Limelight

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although she is a woman with wide-ranging civic and cultural interests, Mrs. Margaret McNamara, wife of the new secretary of defense, prefers to leave the public limelight to her husband.

He has often made news, but through it all Mrs. McNamara has shunned publicity for herself and her family. When he was named president of Ford Motor Co. on November 9, 1960, she politely but firmly refused to be interviewed or photographed.

When McNamara's appointment as secretary of defense was announced it was only after much clamoring by the press that she consented to meet reporters and photographers.

WARM HOSTESS

Yet this public image of her as a shy, extremely modest woman is not altogether accurate. Reporters who visited the large rambling Tudor-style McNamara home in Ann Arbor, Mich., found her to be a warm, friendly and hospitable hostess.

Mrs. McNamara's job has been to run the family and it is a close-knit household in which they live. She and her husband and their three children, Margaret, 19 (a student at Stanford University), Kathleen 16 and Craig, 10, often take summer hiking and winter skiing trips together.

The McNamaras regularly attend ice hockey and football games at the University of Michigan.

TAUGHT SCHOOL

McNamara is 44, his wife is approximately the same age. They met while both were students at the University of California, but their courtship did not begin in earnest, she says, until after both were graduated. They were married in 1940 in Alameda, Calif., where she worked for two years after graduation as a school teacher. In college she had majored in science and physical education.

Mrs. McNamara is about 5 feet 3. She has dark, wavy hair cut rather short, and tends toward comfortable informality in her dress.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Her civic and cultural activities included:

Regional chairman of the White House Conference on Children and Youth in 1959; member of the Michigan Youth Commission, 1958; Scout leader; board member of Ann Arbor's League of Women Voters and chairman of the city's polo drive.

CAPITAL ATMOSPHERE

For several years she has studied French at the University of Michigan and last fall was one of the organizers of the French Alliance of Ann Arbor, a national and international group devoted to the propagation and study of French culture.

plan of the orchestra and parquette, the only known accurate floor plan was that for the dress circle—the first balcony. A plan for the family circle—second balcony—still is missing. But efforts to locate it are being made, through the records of the Baltimore lithographer's firm.

Other interests include art—she collects contemporary paintings and is an amateur painter drama.

In Washington, she says the McNamaras will try to maintain the same "family atmosphere" they have had in Ann Arbor, but she admits "it may be difficult."

HOUSE FACES RULES CHANGE VOTE TUESDAY

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration faces its first key vote in the House Tuesday. It is on a plan to enlarge the Rules Committee, the group of 12 men who decide what bills come before the House.

Speaker Sam Rayburn announced over the weekend there would be no compromise on his plan to add three members to the committee. This would break the power of four conservative Republicans and two Southern Democrats on the committee who consistently have blocked House votes on many social welfare bills.

Ending this power is the first key to getting President Kennedy's New Frontier legislation through Congress. Many House liberals regard the step as absolutely essential if bills are to be enacted covering these Kennedy pledges: aid to education, aid to depressed areas, housing aid, medical care for the aged under Social Security, and raising the minimum wage.

"NO COMPROMISE"

Rayburn is deeply committed to ending the bottleneck power of the committee. His "no compromise" announcement Saturday indicates he thinks he now has the votes to win.

Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia is chairman of the Rules Committee and one of the Southern Democrats who teams with the Republicans to produce bill-blocking 6-6 tie votes in the committee.

Smith had offered to clear the five major Kennedy legislative proposals and also to give up the committee's power to prevent bills from going to House-Senate conferences in return for leaving his committee alone.

But Rayburn said, "Five bills is just a couple of weeks' work. We've got a two-year session coming up, and I've got to look at the long haul."

COULD FREE BILLS

"I don't know what bills are going to come up, but I think the newly elected President has a right to get his legislative program considered in the House."

"And I think that with a Rules Committee as composed now it couldn't be done. A committee divided 6-6 can't do business."

The Rayburn plan would add two Democrats and one Republican to the committee. The two new Democrats presumably could be counted on to vote with the administration. Bills thus could be freed for action by an 8-7 vote, even if the new Republican joined the conservative coalition.

PAAR INSISTS HE'S GOING TO QUIT HIS SHOW

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was almost a year ago when Jack Paar, with tears in his eyes, arose from his host's chair on the NBC "Tonight" show and walked off the program murmuring, "Surely there must be a better way to make a living."

In the intervening 12 months, many things have happened to Paar, including a triumphant return to his show. But Paar has not retreated one inch from his belief about a better way to make a living.

He is not kidding and he is not threatening when he says that he wants to leave his late-night NBC show by the end of this year, even though his contract runs to the end of 1962.

WANTS SHOW A WEEK

"And what would I do?" he repeated dreamily. "I'd take my wife and daughter and go off for a long time to some place where nobody even mentioned television. I'd rest. I'd travel. I'd fool around the house."

And, after that, he'd like to return to his profession: entertainer. "Perhaps one show a week for two hours," he said. "I think I'd like a Sunday night show. It looks so easy to the audience, and nobody has any idea how hard it is and how much work goes into those few minutes I do alone."

Paar has been working on another of his occasional early-evening shows, "The Square World of Jack Paar," which will be shown Tuesday night on NBC (10-11).

HISTORIC MOMENT

If you watch enough television, you'll be rewarded occasionally by the darndest experiences.

For instance, on Friday night a panel show called, "You're In the Picture," there wasn't any panel. There was just Jackie Gleason talking about what a terrible show "You're In the Picture" had been the week before. Jackie was wonderful—funny, sad, witty and frank. But suppose every time a program proved a dud, the management devoted the next show to discussing it.

Then Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan Show there was Salvador Dali, the painter, with a fencers mask over his head, a cane in his left hand and a veterinarian pistol, designed to shoot anesthesia into ailing lions, in his right. He was shooting pink bullets at a canvass, and achieving what he said was a religious theme.

"You are looking at an historic moment in art," Sullivan informed us. Maybe if it wasn't historic it was an explosive moment. And from now on, if you can aim straight, you're an artist.

Recommended tonight: June Allyson Show, CBS, 10:30-11 EST—Lee J. Cobb starring in a Civil War drama, "School of the Soldier."

RESTLESS GUN WARNING

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—When the city's park's department discovered someone had been shooting out lights around ice skating rinks, Forester Nelson C. Goehle turned to television for a nickname for the culprit—"Restless Gun."

"If we get our hands on him," Goehle promised grimly, "the Restless Gun will rest in peace."

CLEAR'S OFFICE

COTTONWOOD, Ariz. (AP)—Louis Peterson, owner of a sawmill, decided to clean up his office. On one of the shelves he discovered a bomb fuse, the type used in 100-pound bombs during World War II.

Peterson notified the nearby Navajo Supply Depot. Demolition experts said the fuse was still active and could have caused quite a blast if given a hard blow.
